ABOUT BREA

MULTIPLE INDOOR KARTING CHAMPION

BIKC NATIONAL FINALIST

2X GINETTA JUNIOR
SCHOLARSHIP FINALIST

Brea Angliss is a hugely exciting young racing talent ready to embark on her first full season of car-racing in the Ginetta Junior Championship in 2023, as she looks to build a professional career within the motorsport industry.

Brea makes the transition to cars following an impressive six-year spell in karting, with eye-catching performances in both indoor and outdoor competition. In the latter, she was a regular top ten finisher during the 2017 PFI Summer Championships in Honda Cadets, before finishing as the third placed rookie in the Mini X30 class at PFI in 2019.

Indoor karting netted her consecutive Cadet class titles at TeamSport Warwick and Coventry, before she finished second in the national Kartchamps event in 2019. The current lap record holder in Coventry, she produced a sensational run in the 2022 British Indoor Karting Championships to finish eighth overall in the Junior National Finals from over 11,000 entrants.

Brea has started her Ginetta journey across the last couple of years, twice reaching the final of the competitive Junior Scholarship contest before making her on-track debut in the 2022 Winter Series. Immediately making her mark, she beat a number of more experienced drivers to record a best overall finish of 12th.

With an exciting combination of impressive raw speed and a natural flair for overtaking, Brea is certainly one to watch heading into the 2023 season.

GINETTA JUNIOR CHAMPIONSHIP

The Michelin Ginetta Junior Championship is the UK's longest running and most prestigious junior series. It offers the first step on the motorsport ladder for 14 to 17 year old racing drivers, who produce some of the most exciting, close-fought racing in global motorsport.

Over the last two decades, the championship has been a proving ground for the motorsport stars of the future, giving drivers the platform to learn the key skills and attributes needed to progress their careers both on and off track. Amongst the drivers to have started in the series are F1 star Lando Norris, three-time W Series champion Jamie Chadwick and 2022 BTCC victor Tom Ingram.

For 2023, the championship will be racing on one of the biggest race packages in the UK alongside the British GT Championship, as well as being part of two special standalone Ginetta race events.

PARTNERSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

Alongside the opportunity to support a talented, motivated and ambitious young athlete, partnering with Brea Angliss brings with it exciting commercial opportunities and brand exposure in the fast-paced world of motorsport.

Company branding on her Ginetta G40 will feature to large audiences as the Ginetta Junior Championship benefits from free live global online streaming of its races across the manufacturer's YouTube and Facebook channels, while the British GT Championship events had more than 10,000 fans in attendance on average across the 2022 season.

Ginetta's dedicated media team uses digital communications and social media to generate exposure and publicity for the championship and its teams and drivers too. Ginetta.com is a central platform for news and updates, with more than 500,000 unique users and two million page views, while the @GinettaCars social media platforms combined have more than 70,000 followers.

Partners can also benefit from an access all areas experience on race events, with meet and greets with Brea and her team as well as behind the scenes tours of the paddock and her car. This can be supplemented by VIP hospitality in Ginetta's dedicated race centre, which stands pride of place in the paddock during each race event and serves as the perfect place to socialise and network through the weekend.

With opportunities for B2B networking, ambassadorial appearances and bespoke PR and social media content, partnering with Brea Angliss provides a vast array of activation opportunities for partners looking to expand their marketing reach.
